With full faces of ore averaging between $150 and $150 on two different levels there cannot be the slightest foult about the position the mine will becapy when brought into a fuller development.

Tybo, which has undergone the changes of half a century, is coming back with ample capital to see it through on the most modern lines of mining. The reorganized Louisiana Con Mining Company has not made a clear showdown of its plans but enough! is known to convince the most carriess observer that great things; are in the malding and that the new company is ally financed to rehabilitate a property win in for years held the first place among the silver lead producers of Nye county. Tybo is coming back with a perimenally investment approximating $100,000 for the construction of a power line from that famous old camp of Holmant which will emade it to compete with more favorably structed holdings. When a company begins operations by making such a large outlay for conveying officient power, it is safe to presume that other elements of success will not be lacking. This company is not boasting or making any rash promises, but is going shead in a direct number to live down the record of failures that have built agest operations where the Beenholmer interests opened a mine that her mostly a quarter of a continue rank of as one of the Extension of the power line to Tybo carries with it the conviction that companies operating within close call of the terminus of the line will soon bestir themselves to the value of electricity as an adjunct of modern amining and take steps to connect the mines of Bellehelen, the old Rattlesnake, keystone and other giants of early days with the new methods for taking losing properties out of the slough where they have languished for years, and restoring them to a new life of usefulness.

With such energy manifested on all sides it is timely for Tonopah to shake off the thrall of indifference and take steps to regain the position it occupied a month ago as the greatest silver gold producer of the United States. No. No. No. No. No. No. No. No.

BOLSHEVIK BAILROADS.

The politicalization of railroads has resulted in hoisting of railway rates and fares, the deterioration of service and immense deficits in operation which are now being paid by the people out of the public treasury." Not only are the people not prepared for further steps in socialization but they are heartily anxious to get rid of much of that which under the camouflage of war has been foisted upon them by state socialists in national authority. Employes of railroads themselves confess that under government operation of railroads their condition has not been bettered. They profess to be worse off today than they were five years ago. They admit that while there have been increase of wages these have only formed part of an endless chain of price boosting which has not only eaught up but gone ahead of them.

The suggestion that the railroads be politically operated under a system of a division of profits is rather amusing in view of the fact that under government operation we have losses rather than profits to divide. Expenses are increasing, revenues falling off. It is evident that we will soon be at the point where the railroads could not be profitably operated even if there were no interest charges on the investment to pay. But, with the proposed twenty billion dollar load on these properties there would be heavy losses to divide, or else the public would be required to pay further increases in freight and passenger rates, which would amount to the same thing.

Watchful waiting seems to be making as much of a mess of things in Europe as it did in Mexico.

西西斯西西西 President Wilson's one-man filibuster against the operation of the legislative branch of government still continues.

FOR FOR FOR FOR FOR FOR FOR Very naturally the democratic politicians want to discuss the ig problems of the future. They would discuss most anything that would have a tendency to cause the people to forget the incompetency and extravagance and autocracy of the recent past.

The present day leadership of the democratic party is expert in presented in a particularly pleasing outting over scremes which enable them to adorn the public payroll hile the public is engaged in discovering that it has been flimmed gain, and when one of these schemes plays out they are out for to new crop of suckers with another that sounds just as good.

The American people and the American congress are confronted y the grave necessity of taking steps to save this government from ther chaos.
